Vancouver Island Speech-Language Pathologists in Private Practice Directory 2021

The Vancouver Island Speech-Language Pathologists in Private Practice is a professional organization of clinicians in Greater Victoria and other Vancouver Island locations. All members of VISLP-PP have the required registration with the College of Speech and Hearing Health Professionals of BC (<https://www.cshbc.ca/>). Registration may be indicated by the credential “Registered Speech-Language Pathologist”, or “RSLP”. Please see individual member listings for other voluntary professional certifications and affiliations.

Speech and language services provided by members include therapy for stuttering, voice problems, articulation, language, swallowing disorders, cognitive-communication problems, and augmentative communication. Help with English as an additional language and foreign accent reduction is also available. Services may include screening, assessment, consultation, treatment, presentations, and workshops. Feel free to make additional copies of this Directory as needed or contact anyone listed in the Directory.

Why choose a private Speech-Language Pathologist?

Private Speech-Language Pathologists offer an alternative to, or may be used in cooperation with, the government-funded Speech-Language Pathology services provided by child development centres, schools, health units, and hospitals.

- Service is accessible to everyone, and there is no waiting list.
- Clients are able to interview and select the therapist of their choice.
- Therapy programs and schedules are flexible and designed to fit clients’ needs.

Are costs covered?

Insurance coverage for speech therapy is included in many extended health insurance policies. The amount of coverage varies depending on the policy and the insurance company. Private speech and language therapy fees are not covered by the Medical Services Plan of British Columbia. Funding for speech and language therapy is available, in some cases, through government programs and private agencies.

For further information about speech and language disorders, services, or funding, feel free to contact any of the members listed in the Directory or visit the websites below.

My mission is to create a practice where we can hold space to honour ourselves, each other, and the differences that make us unique. I'm passionate about children's communication development, supporting learning through play, and nurturing stronger social communicators. I focus on embedding the Social Thinking® Methodology, created by Michelle Garcia Winner, into many aspects of my practice to help strengthen the social mind of all learners. I also have a particular affinity for connecting with children with autism as I believe we all have so much to learn from each other. You can find me on the Registry of Autism Providers (RASP) list in BC. Wild Seeds SLP offers a variety of direct, individualized, and consultative services to support children's communication development, either online, in your own home, or at school; from supporting speech sound productions, to early language development, to narrative development, and social learning. Yet, the goal is to not only support your child but to also empower your whole family and change the environment in order to flourish. You can find more information on my website. Additionally, if you're an adult seeking out support to develop your own social-emotional learning and social communication strategies, I would love to connect. ✔ Currently offering services via telepractice.

More specifically, I use social communication strategies to address how my clients can connect with others. The types of clients I see are mostly those on the Autism spectrum, those with neurodevelopmental delays/disorders, those with acquired communication challenges following a stroke or traumatic brain injury, or individuals who would like to improve their social communication skills. An underlying diagnosis is not required to receive treatment. Typically these clients are looking to improve their dating/partnership/friendship skills from a communication perspective. I will also see anyone aged 19+ with articulation concerns such as a lisp, challenges with the "r" sound, etc. Services are available in the client's home or via Teletherapy. ✔ Currently offering services via telepractice.

Haley Wilson, MHSc, RSLP Age Groups Served: all ages Email: hswilson.slp@gmail.com Website: https://hswilsonslp.weebly.com/	Communication builds relationships, and relationship is at the core of my work as a speech-language pathologist (SLP). I am dedicated to helping clients and families reach their speech, language and communication goals through collaborative goal-setting and principles of evidence-based practice. My motto (and my mission) is to provide supported speech, language, and learning services—from A to Z. No matter your age, race, religion, gender or your communication goals, there is a place for you here. I have a particular interest in supporting pre-teens and teenagers with language and literacy needs, and I also have experience with accent modification and professional communication training for adults (e.g.: assertiveness, public speaking). I currently see private clients exclusively via telepractice alongside my work as a school district SLP. ✓ Currently offering services via telepractice.
Stephanie Mohr, M.S., S-LP (C) RSLP-C, RASP Age Groups Served: 0-6, 6-19 Phone: 778-522-4214 Address: 821 Burdett Ave, Victoria BC Email: info.speakaboo@gmail.com Website: www.speakaboospeech.com	As a speech-language pathologist I enjoy working with children throughout their development. I have a particular interest in early intervention, and believe in a holistic family-centered approach to therapy that focuses on a child’s strengths as well as parent education and involvement. I have worked extensively in the field of Autism and consult with ABA teams throughout Victoria and Vancouver. In addition to individual therapy I am a Hanen “More Than Words” instructor and enjoy offering training courses to parents of young children with Autism (ASD), and other social communication challenges.
